The thermometer at Portland, Or., Thursday reached 102 deg. and remained at that point for three hours in the afternoon.

Did you see those four-bit shirts at Chas. H. Kelly's? If not, why not? They are dandies and fine enough for a broker.

The body found near Brighton, Thursday, is believed to be that of Jack Gorton, implicated in the Clipper Gap train robbery two years ago.

The papers are making a great howl over the farmers' combine to corner wheat. Haven't they the same right to corner wheat as Mackey and Jay Gould?

The stone work on the pavilion was finished yesterday. Mr. Wm. Elliott, the contractor, is entitled to considerable credit for the rapidity with which he pushed the work.

The telegraphic dispatches claim that Bernhard was born in New York State the daughter of Dingsley King and that she ran away from her aunt's home when she was ten years old. Her relatives claim to have recently received a letter from her acknowledging her identity.

The Pratt Fund.

Carson citizens are just beginning to wake up to the praiseworthy object of the Pratt fund. Yesterday in spite of the heat a good many citizens got around to the APPEAL office with their dimes.

Yesterday's receipts were:
Dr. Lee and family	50
Two young ladies	20
Chas. Friend and family	30
An attorney	20
Two young ladies	20
An adjuster	10
Pete Taylor	10
Joe Giuliano	10
Dr. Southworth and family	50
John Hoppen and wife	25
Mrs. H. S. Dority	15
J. R. Kennedy	16
The boys	1.00
Jim Wiggins	25
Wm. Henderson	25
Ethel Hofer	10
Hazel Hofer	10
Panzy Kelly	10
	4.55
Previous contribution	$16 90
Total	$21 45

Mrs. Higbee of Virginia City sends ten cents and word that she hopes the fund will reach $1000. In this connection the following letter is significant:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL.—I wish to ask if it is really a fact that the other two papers in the city have declined to give any money to the Pratt fund. I hope the statement is really only an APPEAL joke, for I would be sorry to feel that Carson supports two papers run on such a skinflint basis as to begrudge 10 cents a piece to a woman who allowed 45 square inches of her skin to be taken to save a man's life. Enclosed find 20 cents, which I wish you would credit to the News and Tribune. Yours,

A LADY.

If the lady will call she can get her money back, as the APPEAL credits no one with money in this matter who does not actually give something. It would give these papers a reputation for generosity not borne out by the actual fact of their giving anything. Meanwhile it is not too late for them to slide in. The chance will be open all next week, at the end of which time the amount received will be sent to some San Francisco paper which will be asked to accept the Carson donation as the nucleus of a San Francisco fund to be started for Mrs. Pratt's benefit. When once started in San Francisco it ought to reach a substantial figure.

MOUNTAIN CLODBURST

GENOA HAS A NARROW ESCAPE FROM THE FLOOD.

The Torrents Pour Down Three Canyons and Destroy Considerable Property.

The thunder storm which gave such delight to citizens of Carson Friday afternoon, came near wiping out the mountain town of Genoa.

About 3 o'clock in the afternoon a heavy cloud spread over the sky to the southward, and presently the rain poured in torrents. Inside an hour it was reported that a cloudburst had taken place near where the big snow slide had occurred years ago, and in a few moments a terrible flood of water came down three separate canyons, sweeping everything before it. The water came down in a solid wall crested with foam, and carrying with it logs, boulders and debris. It seemed about 20 feet high, and as it came sweeping down the canyon nearest the town it was indeed a formidable object. The Courier extra issued yesterday says:

When the first alarm of the flood was given, T. N. Hansen, W. D. Gray, the people at the Raycraft Exchange and others in that locality rushed the women and children out to safer quarters. Women hurried down the street in the rain, carrying their babies in their arms, but the main destructive flood was soon over and assurance of safety given.

From Genoa Canyon the water rushed down in a single breast 20 feet high, carrying logs and boulders in wild confusion. It struck C. W. Dake's undertaking shop and swept it like a toy 200 yards down into Fray's field. The building was turned completely round and what was the south wing is now the north. The door and window in the back end of the house were smashed in and the large stock of coffins somewhat damaged. The building is tilted up on rocks and logs.

The water made a clean shot from Snow-Slide Canyon leaving the rocks bare and dashing over the base of the mountain.

C. W. Dake saw the water come out and says that when the stream from Snow-Slide Canyon struck that from Genoa Canyon, carrying boulders and logs, the water shot up into the air 50 or 60 feet. A thousand feet of new lumber was swept out of his barn lot. Logs were washed down the road in front of his house as far as the Fray garden above the road. A stack of hay near the undertaking shop was partly swept away and the remainder is weighted down with tons of rocks. That part of Mr. Dake's ranch known as the Audrain place, is almost entirely obliterated.

The water from Genoa Canyon rushing down with rocks and logs, and covering Mrs. Raycraft's fine young orchard, potatoes and vegetables on the Nimrod, which was devastated by the snowslide of 1882.

T. N. Hanson's pasture lot was covered with immense boulders and totally ruined.

L. Fray is the heaviest loser of all. His large flume was entirely swept away from the mouth of Genoa Canyon to the mouth of his barn lot. Dozens of logs some 40 feet long and three feet in diameter, were carried across the road and from two to three hundred yards down into the field. Rocks and debris cover much of the finest meadow and grain land, and a great deal of damage is entailed by a loss of crops as well as real estate. Mr. Fray's flume cost over $3000. The strip of land laid waste is a deplorable sight. Many of the logs were fairly ground, scarred and cut to pieces.

At the North end of town the damage from the School House canyon was trifling, but the little flood caused much excitement. The main stream shot through Sheriff McCormack's buggy shed, tearing out the back end, and rushed down through and around A. Schwartz's brewery. The main stream spilled over, sending a channel of water and decayed trash from the mountain down the street north of the Court-house and R. Gelatt's barn, doing but little damage to the street.

SIERRA CANYON.

A. R. Gray and Wm. Fulton were working on the Gray mine in Sierra Canyon and describe the flood as coming in one majestic rush, carrying logs and boulders along like feathers in a Washoe zephyr. At the mouth of the canyon the flood divided into three channels. One went straight down, washing debris into the road, making it impassable.

Another stream came down the main water course south of Mr. Jones' house and the third came between these two. They all spread out through the sage and in many places filled the road several feet deep.

J. Q. Adams and Joe Jones had a lot of flume destroyed. Adams' water ditch was almost obliterated and much delay will be had in getting water down.

NEAR WALLEY'S SPRINGS.

The water rushed out of Martin flume canyon north of the Springs covering the base of the mountain and road to such an extent that teams were compelled to go down to the tules to get past.

GENERAL NOTES.

The central part of Genoa entirely escaped the flood.

The entire water supply of Genoa is cut off, the pipes being broken and the tanks filled with debris or washed out.

From reports it seems that the torrent extended from Walley's Springs to Sierra Canyon, a distance of three or four miles along the summit of the mountain. Whether damage was done beyond the summit is not known.

Joe Platt, Willie Merrill and others landed in Gelatt's barn to escape the heavy rain. When the flood was over they were compelled to go down the Boyd lane and out by the Frevert road to get to their fishing grounds at Woodfords.

Hon. J. W. Hains and Steve Gage were in the big bonanza at Walley's Springs at the time of the flood and hearing the roaring opened the door and found the water almost running into the building. They called for a boat. There was no particular damage done about the Springs.

Dance at Cook's.

Walter Cook will give a social dance on Saturday evening, Aug. 1st. The hall is cool and pleasant, situated in a fine grove. There is plenty of good stabling on the ground and a fine time for all who attend. Admission to hall $1.00; supper 50 cents each. jy26
